

Managed Hosting Services

Server Monitoring – This is the process of scanning the servers in search of any irregularities or potential failures; done in a timely fashion, these problems will be rectified before they develop into major issues or service disruptions.

Security – This includes virus scanning, spam filtering, firewall configuration and operating system updates in addition to standard physical data centre security measures. Security is important on any computer system/network, but it is especially important when dealing with personal or business critical data and information.

Full Back-up and Storage – A company losing data can be costly in every sense of the word; it can cause a loss of money, time and customer trust. For these reasons, it is vital that all critical or personal information is backed up and stored securely. LJWeb Managed Hosting has both the physical and technical capabilities to carry out the back-up/storage process correctly.

Server Configuration and Maintenance – LJWeb ensures that your hosting solution is initially configured to meet your requirements effectively and subsequently, to perform the necessary server maintenance to keep the platform running smoothly.

Support – If there ever is an issue – there is always qualified support on hand. Support is offered via email and an online helpdesk.

Flexibility - Managed Hosting is a flexible solution – not a one size fits all service – we work with customers to achieve a solution tailored to suit the budget and individual requirements of their business. What's more, when those requirements change, we can react in good time to ensure that the hosting platform continues to meet those demands.

Reduced cost of operation – The hardware and expertise required to manage hosting in-house can be very costly; with many businesses, the cost outweighs the benefits. Managed hosting can be a more cost effective IT solution without having to compromise on suitability or control.

More effective use of resource – If your company employs IT staff then you know better than anyone that skilled IT employees can be costly. With this in mind, it makes sense to make sure that you put this resource to the best possible use. When using our managed hosting service, we take care of the day-to-day running and maintenance of the servers and infrastructure, meaning that in-house IT staff can focus on other, more important tasks.
